Importance: High

Stanley, what Mr. Siewert "provided to the parties" is "raw data." Your words. Indeed, you and he described it as "scope-limited data from the Logan-Patterson phone." To ensure that we received the data promptly — in your words, "time was of the essence" — we told him that we would send him a subpoena that day and asked him to whom we should address it and if he would accept service by email. (This is the same person that my representative met with for hours at the time that the phone was downloaded - at your encouragement.) Mr. Siewert said to address the subpoena to his company care of him and that he would accept service by email. You were cced on the transmission of the subpoena. All of the foregoing is perfectly fine, and your suggestion otherwise is nonsensical.

We look forward to receiving your office's response to our settlement demand, and if the mediation proves to be unsuccessful, to presenting our compelling case to a Richmond jury. Best, Mark

Mark,

It has come to our attention that you called and spoke to our retained, non-testifying consultant/expert earlier this week. This was exceedingly improper for multiple reasons. We are currently evaluating the appropriate remedy for this situation. In the meantime, however, immediately cease and desist from any further communications with our retained consultant.

Regards,
Stan
